MULTIMEDIA COMPANY RE-LAUNCHES

Phoenix, AZ – October 3, 2011 – We're back. Not that we really went anywhere to begin with. We just slipped into hibernation for a while so that we could re-launch ourselves with some new exciting services.

Our highly acclaimed multimedia company, FireBox Media, will resume a full schedule, continuing to build its reputation as a premier source for design, video and marketing services.

This re-launch marks the tenth anniversary of the company. Throughout its historical and successful path, clients like Alcatel-Lucent, Verizon Wireless, Sprint Nextel, SafaStone and Sweet Daddy Cupcakes (yes... cupcakes for grownups), have benefitted by the expertise and cutting-edge services of FireBox Media.

"Our goal has always been to provide the best in services. We did that previously, but now FireBox Media has the proper structure to become the 'go to' source for any business", says Mike Dunlop, the Creative Director for Firebox Media. "The proper structure involves a group of professionals who are committed to provide their clients with some of the best design and video content available, combined with the best in integrated social media marketing strategies."

The re-launch and subsequent celebration will be marked by the unveiling of a new website, www.firebox-media.com, and the unleashing of sparklers by all three principals of the company.
